

YOU can help people in their grief

Grief is surprising, daunting, scary, and unpredictable. Most people don't dare think about how it will affect their future when someone close to them dies. You may not be the one to walk with your client through their longer grief journey, but you can acknowledge the work that lies ahead for them. And you can let them know about the resources available to help them get through the rough spots.

GRIEF WATCH can help you to help them!

Grief Watch is devoted to helping professional persons who work with people in the throes of grief. If you have a resource or gift shop at your location some of our memorial items and books may be ones you will want to have in stock. Just having a flyer with current resources in your community along with your "top ten" favorite grief books can help the bereaved see you as a guide that they can call on if they need further direction. Knowing what is available is key. You could be their new best friend. Grief Watch is available to you if you are looking for something specific and unable to locate it. We could become your new best friend.

Grief Watch produces and publishes a wide variety of resources to help those who are grieving. More and more funeral companies are seeing the value of sharing our resources with the families they serve. One of our most beloved publications is the book, TEAR SOUP. Here is what one therapist has said about TEAR SOUP:

I've used lots of books on grief in 30 years of practicing psychotherapy. And this is the best! It's written in a way that gives the grieving mind and exhausted spirit a quick, hands-on idea of what's happening, and it gives fabulous permission to every reader to absolutely do your grief "your way."
